RE: Northeast Expansion Project
YOUR LAND PARCEL INFORMATION
FROM THE TGP LETTER

Dear Mr. XXXX,

Thank you for your interest in surveying my property for a possible ROW easement to install a natural gas transmission pipeline. After careful consideration and upon legal consultation I regret to inform you that I must decline your request for the following reasons.

- A natural gas transmission pipeline is considered storage of hazardous material and would violate provisions in my mortgage, put me in default and expose me to foreclosure.
- Natural gas transmission pipelines pose a very serious risk due to possible explosion and fire with potential injury and loss of life.
- A natural gas transmission pipeline is considered storage of hazardous materials and would violate the terms of my homeowners insurance agreement and expose me to litigation risks due to the previously mentioned fire hazard.
- The existence of a natural gas transmission pipeline on my property, based on real estate value assessments from similar properties with similar easements, poses a demonstrable loss of property value, which would be unrecoverable.
- The existence of a natural gas transmission pipeline on my property could prevent sale or sub-division of the property due to the potential inability of the buyer to obtain a mortgage.

Based on my inability to grant a ROW easement for the above stated reasons it would be inconsistent to allow you access to my property for surveying or for any other purpose.

Best Regards,
