Ranger Field Report

On a separate piece of paper or in your notebook, please provide the following information to your supervisor.

Plan: What was your destination and how did you plan to travel?

Preparation: Did you bring the 10 essential tools for survival? Did you need everything you packed? What items didn't you use?

Communication: Did you tell anyone about your plans before you left?

Emergencies: Because of ranger safety concerns, you must report all emergency situations you face in the field to your supervisor. These include unplanned nights out, injuries, avalanches, etc.

Wildlife sightings: The National Park Service records all possible wildlife sightings. Please help add to the database by recording any interesting plants or animals you encountered on your trip.

Ranger Development: Rangers learn from nature. List at least two animal adaptations you encountered on your trip that taught you something about how you can survive as a human when traveling into extreme environments. Explain how observing these adaptations helped you survive.

Thank you for your service!
