"Even if you don't earn your PMP, having a familiarity with project management will be valuable. It demonstrates to an employer that you have a grasp of project management fundamentals, understand crucial elements, and can use this knowledge to be a direct contributor to a project's success."

— Brett Higdon

"If you're the type of person that takes this course, you're probably already a good employee wherever you work. This shows a commitment to getting better. I think the program provides a nudge that can push a merely good or effective manager to the next level."

— Patrick Mooney
