Rotorua

Phone: 07 366 6137

Open: Daily from 8:30am.
Last admission is at 3:45pm for 5:00pm closing time.

Please present your voucher at the Visitor Centre right by the car park. You will be given maps and information about the fascinating geology of the area and staff will also let you know about the departure options for your lake cruise.

As Waimangu can get busy at this time of year your boat cruise has been booked for 11:30am. Please note that the boat cruise departs from the opposite end of the valley to the entrance. If you wish to walk from the entrance to the boat cruise please give yourselves at least 2 hours for this walk. Alternatively you can take a bus from the entrance to the lake.

Driving Directions to Waimangu Valley

Driving south of Rotorua along State Highway 5 (the Rotorua-Tupo Highway) look out for the Waimangu Volcanic Valley signs 14 km from Rotorua – turn left into Waimangu Road. Then drive 6 km along Waimangu Road to the entrance and car park.

Your Waimangu Volcanic Valley walk or hike takes you on an ecology-focused adventure of the craters of this beautiful valley. As you walk through the youngest eco-systems in the world you will view a range of geothermal activity, native plants and bird-life, an activity not to be missed. At any stage of your walk you can take the courtesy shuttle bus, which regularly circles the valley, back to the Waimangu Visitor Centre.

Easy Walking

There are many walks, mainly downhill, for you to choose from. You will see Echo Crater, and Frying Pan Lake, the world's largest hot water spring. The mysterious and dramatic Inferno Crater and its beautiful blue hot lake will take your breath away. Enjoy the serenity of New Zealand native bush. You will see newly forming silica terraces and rare and unusual thermal plants.

Mt Haszard Hiking Trail

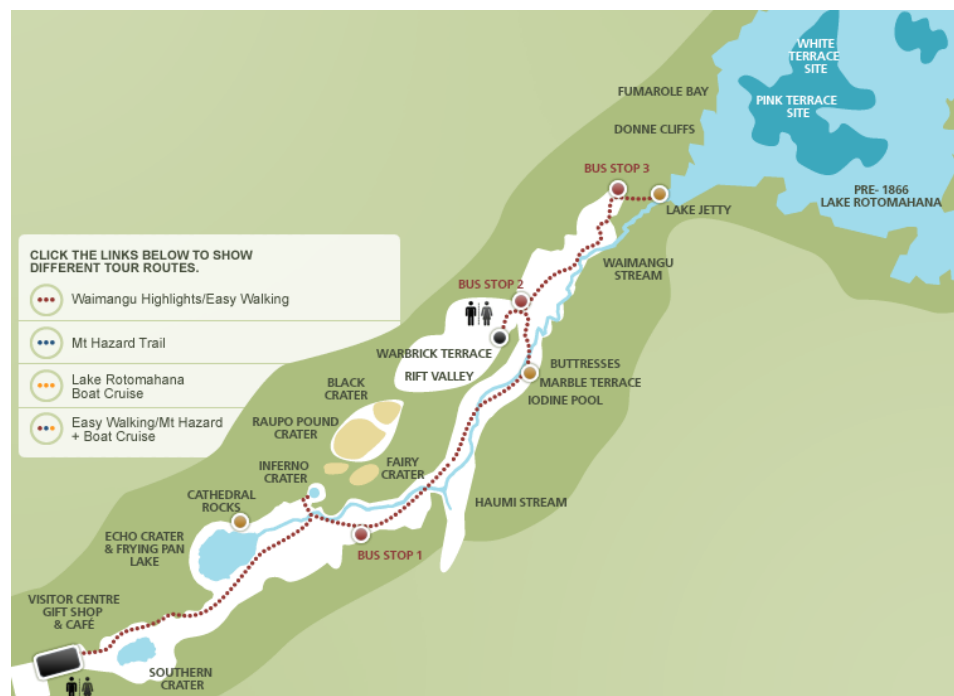

Opened in January 2005, the Mt Haszard Hiking Trail follows parts of the original Waimangu Round Trip walking route from the early 1900's when tourists came to view the Waimangu Geyser erupting. The Mt Haszard Hiking Trail begins at Inferno Crater and moves high above the Waimangu Volcanic Valley floor. This nature hike provides spectacular panoramic views of the valley. We do not recommend this trail for children, pushchairs or wheelchairs.

Lake Rotomahana Cruise

Enjoy a boat cruise on Lake Rotomahana. This beautiful lake has its own separate geothermal system, with the amazing thermal activity that can only be seen from our vessel during your boat cruise. One of New Zealand's most beautiful, unspoilt, natural wilderness areas, the lake and surrounding land are protected from development.

What to Bring and Wear

Please wear flat shoes or sandals and bring your camera, comfortable clothing, rain or sun protection as necessary and a baby pushchair if needed. For the advanced hiking option, good walking shoes with treaded soles are recommended.

After visiting Waimangu you will drive from Rotorua to Taupo. The approximate time to travel is 1 hour. Please refer to the map included in your documentation for the route we recommend you travel.

The active volcano Mount Ruapehu dominates the landscape, rising to 2,797 metres from the surrounding countryside. It has Mount Ngauruhoe (also active) and Mount Tongariro to keep it company. The three volcanoes are a spectacular sight on a clear day—in the colder months they are capped in snow.

Mount Ruapehu is the site of the North Island's premier ski fields—Whakapapa and Turoa. The mountain was chosen by movie director Peter Jackson to play Mt Doom in his 'Lord of the Rings' trilogy. Other filming locations in Tongariro National Park include:

Departure: 10:00am

Please make your way to Stephens Bay to meet with your skipper, Rod Stuart, for a 10:00am departure, returning at approximately 4:00pm.

Location of Stephens Bay

Make your way to Motueka and follow the main road out of Motueka and through Riwaka. Then follow the signs to Kaiteriteri. Stephens Bay is signposted on the right. Follow Stephens Bay Road to the end where there's plenty of room to park. If you get to the golden sands of Kaiteriteri you've gone too far. This drive will take approximately 30-45minutes.

Join the Taranui for a day trip exploring along the Abel Tasman National Park's coastline; past Split Apple Rock, Kaiteriteri, Marahau, round golden sandy bays, Adele and Fishermans Islands and on to Tonga Island seal colony.

Taranui's cruise itinerary is flexible so if there is something to see on your day trip, like dolphins riding the bow wave or New Zealand fur seals fishing, then we'll go take a look. Similarly if there's a particular bay you want to visit or park feature you want to see, then please do let the skipper know and he'll try to accommodate your wishes.

After we've said goodbye to the seals we find a sheltered bay for a light lunch. You can swim, sea kayak, go ashore for a bush walk, or just relax on Taranui while we prepare your lunch. We have plenty of snorkeling equipment if you are keen to work up an appetite and kayaks on board for your enjoyment.

A delicious platter style lunch with fresh local ingredients is provided. Towels, sunscreen, sea kayaks, snorkelling gear and lifejackets are also provided. Please bring your own camera, hat, sunglasses, a warm jacket (just in case...) and swimming gear. If you intend hiking the Abel Tasman Coastal Track then don't forget your sturdy footwear.

Tuesday 19 March 2013

Punakaiki

Today you will drive from Nelson to Punakaiki. The approximate time to travel this distance is 3 hr 30 min (246 km). Please refer to the map included in your documentation for the route we recommend you travel.

En-route today you will if time allows the Murchison Museum on Fairfax St in Murchison gives a graphic account of the 1929 earthquake that devastated the area, with aftershocks continuing for almost 2 weeks after. The effect of the earthquake on the landscape can clearly be seen as you travel through the area.

From here you follow the banks of the Buller River until you enter the town of Lyell, which used to be home to thousands of prospectors in the mid 1800's searching for the ever illusive gold. The Lyell walkway, only about 3 km long, takes you to a pioneer cemetery hidden in the bush and is an excellent option to stretch out the legs.

If time allows, a detour to Cape Foulwind (named by Captain Cook in 1770 when he encountered particularly nasty weather) is worth your while. Tauranga Bay at Cape Foulwind has a seal-breeding colony with seals present year round. There is an excellent track (10 minute walk) to viewing platforms, which overlook the colony. Interpretive panels at the platforms provide information on the activity in the colony, and the seals breeding cycle, as well as historical information about the sealing industry that once existed in New Zealand.

Once you reach the coastline you will not have to travel too long until you come to Fox River Bridge. If your time allows a track heads through the forest along an old pack track that was used to connect the Fox River and Punakaiki River, as along the coast they were not connected until 1929.

Location Map and Accommodation Details for HAVENz

The office for HAVENz is located in the Punakaiki Canoes building, just north of the village. It is located on State Highway 6, on the left hand side, just before the Porotari River. Please check in at the Canoes building for your accommodation and tour.

Food Supplies/Fuel

If you intend to self-cater, then you will need to shop in Greymouth or Westport for food, as only basic grocery items are available in Punakaiki.

It is advisable to fill your vehicle with fuel as you pass through Greymouth or Westport as these are the closest petrol stations to Punakaiki.

Be introduced to plant species that grow in the area and gain insight into how New Zealand was colonized first by Maori and second by Europeans.

Wednesday 20 March 2013

Fox Glacier

Today you will drive from Punakaiki to Fox Glacier. The approximate time to travel this distance is 3 hr 30 min (244 km). Please refer to the map included in your documentation for the route we recommend you travel.

Travel south until you arrive in Hokitika. This was a bustling gold-mining town in the 1860's, with a population of over 6000. The passing of history can be viewed at the West Coast Historical Museum, in Hokitika on Tancred St. Today Hokitika is famous for its jade (greenstone) factories. Many art and craft stores also sell hand-blown glass, gold nugget jewellery and woodwork.

If your time allows head left onto Glacier Access Road in Franz Josef Township for 5 km towards the mountains along the Waiho River. From here two walks can be taken to gain excellent views of the glacier. The first is a ten minute climb to Sentinel Rock; at the end of the 5km there is a forty-five minute walk to the terminal of the ice face.

Location Map and Accommodation Details for Fox Glacier Mountain View Bed and Breakfast

Wanaka

Today you will drive from Fox Glacier to Wanaka. The approximate time to travel this distance is 3 hr 45 min (264 km). Please refer to the map included in your documentation for the route we recommend you travel. There are very few towns on the way so we suggest you fill with petrol at Fox Township and pack some supplies with you, water, snacks etc as there are very few places so stop.

If time permits, you may be able to see penguins at Monro Beach near Lake Moeraki. Look out for the signs off SH 6 as you head south between Lake Paringa and Haast. An easy 40minute walk through coastal forest will take you to the remote beach where between July and December Fiordland crested penguin may be seen in the surf and on the beach.

Driving through the Haast Pass

The Haast Pass road follows an ancient trail used by Maori travelling to the West Coast in search of pounamu/greenstone/jade/nephrite. The name for the trail is Tiora-patea, meaning "The way is clear". The Haast Pass is the lowest across the Main Divide (563 metres above sea level).

A gold prospector called Charles Cameron is considered to be the first European to find the pass. He went alone to the West Coast wanting to reach there by the most direct route from Dunedin, and crossed the pass in January 1863. He buried his powder flask to the west of the pass. Close behind him came Julius von Haast. His party of five found the journey very difficult with constant rain and flooded rivers which slowed their progress and led to a shortage of food. Haast named the pass after himself and claimed to be the first European to have travelled through it, but the discovery of Cameron's flask discredited this claim.

Now with a sealed road travel through the pass offers easy motoring and there are a number of well-marked walks along the way.

Roaring Billy - the walk to these falls takes 25 minutes return, but it is well worth taking the time as there are interesting ferns along the track. At the end of the track there is a good view of the falls across the Haast River.

Thunder Creek Falls - a 2-minute walk (wheelchair access) through silver beech-podocarp rainforest just below the Gates of Haast Bridge, for a view of a 28 metre waterfall. Also regularly seen in this area are Kea, Kaka and other bird life.

Bridle Track - a well graded walk (1.5 hours one way) through beech forest following an old packhorse track between Haast Pass and Davis Flat. This track used to be used regularly in 1880's, and only a little imagination is required to envisage how tough conditions were for those travelling this route back then.

Today you will drive from Wanaka to Queenstown. The approximate time to travel this distance is 1 hr 40 min (117 km). Please refer to the map included in your documentation for the route we recommend you travel.

From Wanaka to Queenstown, there are two options; you can either travel over the Crown Range on State highway 89 (60 minutes) which affords fabulous views, or if you would prefer to take a flatter but longer route (90 minutes), you can travel via Bendigo and the Kawarau Gorge.

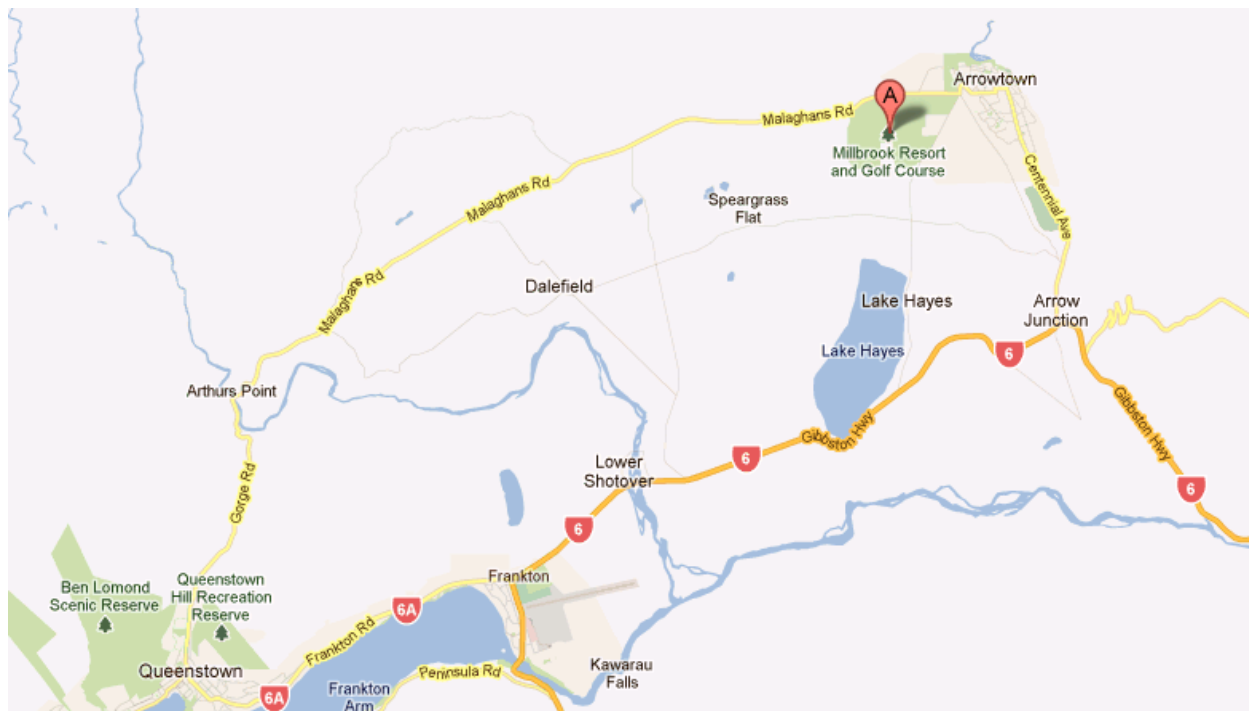

This route takes you out of Wanaka on State Highway 6 and was once one of the most successful mining areas in the Otago region. There is a 20 minute walk exploring the old mine region – ensure you stay to the track as some of the shafts can be as deep as 160m and can be quite hidden from view.

Continuing on this route to get to Queenstown you will pass by the Goldfields Mining centre, where you can try your luck panning for gold in the Kawarau Gorge. The Kawarau Swing Bridge is also the location of the first ever commercial bungy jump world wide – just in case you are feeling like a rush of adrenalin!

Both of these routes have been marked on the map included in your documentation for these routes.

Ulva's Guided Walks Reconfirmation

At some stage today, please ring Ulva on 03 219 1216 to reconfirm your booking and double check on weather conditions for tomorrow.

Your reservation number for this activity is XXXX.

Today you will be driving from Te Anau to Invercargill. If you take the most direct route (State Highway 94 and State Highway 6), the approximate time to travel this distance is 2 hours and 10 minutes (152 km). If however you follow the more scenic route (State Highway 99) detailed in the trip notes below (250kms) you should allow 4 hours. Please refer to the map included in your documentation for the route we recommend you travel.

The journey from Te Anau to Invercargill along State Highway is part of the Southern Scenic Route. The Southern Scenic Route (SSR) was originally conceived by the people of Tuatapere, Western Southland, who, in 1985, decided to share the delights of southern New Zealand with all those who took the time to venture down their way. Their determination and perseverance in the face of initial official reluctance has created a wonderful holiday experience and entertained admiring visitors from all over the world.

The Southern Scenic Route is indicated by this symbol on brown information signs at major intersections and on regular route markers. Please see the brochure included in your travel documents for more detailed maps and further information regarding points of interests along the way.

A great place to take a break enroute is at the Rainbow Reach Track. The track leads to Shallow Bay and within the first few hundred metres you can take a delightful walk. It will guide you through beautiful stands of tall red and mountain beach trees on the banks of the Waiau River.

After 70 km further south, a short access road leads you to the right off the main road to the Clifden Suspension Bridge. The bridge dates back to 1899 and near the beginning of the bridge are the remains of an even earlier settlement.

After returning to the main highway you will pass Tuatapere which is known as the 'Hole in the Bush'. The town can trace its development back to its early days as a sawmilling centre for the bushmen cutting their way through the beautiful lowland forests that once discovered this area.

After leaving Tuatapere continue to Colac Bay where early Maori quarried the argillite rock that breaks through on the eastern shoreline of this long sweeping beach. Only 13 km further you will find Riverton which is Southland's oldest community. It was established by whalers in the 1830s and many original cottages have survived in good condition since their construction in the 1860s.

The last part of your journey will be from Riverton to Invercargill. The city is spread across wide-open plains near the bottom of the South Island. Among the city's most impressive buildings is the huge brick water tower, built in the 1880s.

Once you arrive in Invercargill please make your way to Invercargill Airport to check in for your flight to Stewart Island. Please ensure you arrive by 4:30pm at the latest.

One Tree Hill

In terms of area covered, One Tree Hill is one of the largest volcanoes in the Auckland Volcanic Field, with great views of the Auckland City region from the summit. Of cultural significance to the Maori people, with three Maori pa's (fort's) of archaeological significance in the area, the hill has been a reserve since the 1840's. One Tree Hill was originally named after the single totara which grew at its summit. The totara is the most significant tree to the Maori people as it is a very solid, tall, straight tree and its roots deep and far reaching; pillars of Maori society are often referred to as totara. This tree was chopped down by vandals in 1852. Twenty eight years later Sir John Campbell planted a replacement, however he unfortunately chose an exotic pine as the replacement tree. This remained a bone of contention within Maori blood until 1994 when a local took a chainsaw to the tree – hence One Tree Hill is currently a not tree hill. Sir John Campbell is buried at the summit. Auckland's oldest building – Acacia Cottage - can also be found in this 120 hectare reserve.

Additional Activities in the Coromandel region

Opito Bay

For a superb beach day away from the crowds (fabulous shells, trees to rest under and an inlet for safe swimming) make sure you visit Opito Bay about 20 kms north of Whitianga. This beach is a favourite for the locals. The turn-off for Opito Bay is at Kuaotunu and the drive in is on gravel road; once you see the beach keep driving along the road towards a grove of Pohutakawa Trees, you will see an entrance on your left where you can park your car on a grass area. From here it is just a very short walk (you will need to go over a stile to get over the fence) down to the beach.

Hot Water Beach

Hot Water Beach is as good as its name. Hot pools can be dug out of the sand at low tide near the rocks and in places where steam can be seen rising from the open sea at high tide. Volcanic activity is no longer prevalent on the Coromandel Peninsula - the hot mineral pools are a legacy of a geothermal past. Hot Water Beach is also known as a good surfing spot. As Hot Water Beach is tidal, you will need to schedule your visit. Please refer to this website for more information:

Freedom Walks from Queenstown

The best way to experience the beautiful scenery and outdoors of Queenstown is to take one of the commercial walks or hikes.

There are many short walks that will enable a quick look into the towns local plants and wildlife as well as the longer world renowned walks within Mt Aspiring and Fiordland National Park such as The Dart, Hollyford, Routeburn and Milford.

Ben Lomond

Length: 10 km return (5-6 hours return)

Location: Queenstown, from Lomond Terrace, via Skyline access road

Classification: Tramping Track

Initially the track passes through a mixed forest of mountain beech with several extensive intrusions of Douglas fir. This fir is of European origin and was first planted in the Wakatipu district to enhance an otherwise treeless landscape. On leaving the forest the track continues on the western side of the ridge leading to the saddle. A short distance above the bushline is an alkathene pipe. A tap in the pipeline provides water – the last source before the summit. Snow tussock grassland predominates until the Lomond Saddle is reached. Here the remains of an old Government hut lie strewn over the ground near the track. Wear strong walking shoes. Take warm clothing and wet weather gear as sudden changes in conditions are common near the summit.

One Mile Creek

Length: 2.5 km return (50 minutes return)

Location: Queenstown, from Thompson Street or One Mile Creek outlet on the lake front

Classification: Walking Track

A well-graded walk leads up this narrow gully to the old dam, once a part of Queenstown's first hydroelectric supply – the focus of the walk. For most of its length the walkway follows the line of the old water pipeline, first through heavily modified bush consisting of wineberry and fuchsia, complete with dripping ferns – an unexpected sight in Central Otago. It continues through a Douglas fir plantation before passing into silver beech forest in the gorge. The dam and pipeline were constructed in 1924 as part of an electricity generating scheme. The dam, 150 m above Lake Wakatipu, is a radius dam constructed of 250 tonnes of concrete reinforced with steel.

Queenstown Hill

Length: 4 km return (3 hours return)

Location: Queenstown, from Kent Street, 500 metres from the town centre

Classification: Walking Track

The exotic trees lining much of this walkway make it quite different from the more typical walks in New Zealand. Higher up, in an area of burnt manuka, a plaque has been laid bearing the Maori name for the hill, Te Topu-nui. The summit offers delightful views towards Coronet Peak, Lake Hayes and the Crown Range. Evidence of glacial action can be seen on Cecil Peak in the form of deep "scratches" (striations) along the mountain slopes. Wear strong walking shoes because much of the track is on rock. Take warm clothing as protection from possible wind at the summit.

Frankton Arm

Length: 5 km each way (1.5 hours each way)

Location: Queenstown, north side of Frankton Arm. At Queenstown – end of Peninsula Street; at Frankton – north end of Frankton Recreation Reserve on lake front. An H&H Motors bus runs three times a day between Queenstown and Frankton.

Classification: Walking Track

The walk along the shore of Lake Wakatipu provides a pleasant alternative to driving from Queenstown to Frankton or vice versa. The return trip could be combined with a visit to the Kawarau Falls Dam and bridge, and a swim in the lake at the Frankton end, or with a few hours spent wandering through the Queenstown Gardens. Frankton Arm and the Remarkables provide an impressive backdrop for the entire length of the walk. The Kawarau Falls Dam was a gold mining venture that proved to be a failure. It now provides access to Kelvin Heights and carries the main highway to Kingston and Lumsden.

Kelvin Peninsula

Length: 6 km (1 to 1.5 hours one way)

Location: Queenstown, Kelvin Peninsula

Classification: Walking Track

The walkway can be commenced from either end - Willow Place at the eastern end or the golf course at the western end. The track provides a leisurely walk along the lakeside with pleasant views across the water to Queenstown and the hills behind.

Check with the Queenstown Department of Conservation Office (D.O.C), for the latest updates on these tracks.
