Notes/Reflections:

- The local transport budget was adequate for daily travel around Kyoto. Taking the bus was not only cheaper but also an enjoyable way to see the city.
- Dining out was relatively affordable, and local cuisine was a highlight of the trip.
 Planning meals ahead and choosing restaurants outside of tourist hotspots saved money.
- The bike rental was a cost-effective way to explore more extensively and avoid public transport costs for a day.
- Staying under budget allowed for a stress-free end to the trip, emphasizing the importance of tracking expenses daily.
