Dear Grandma,

I hope this letter finds you in good health and high spirits. I'm writing to tell you about the exciting science fair at school last week. I made a volcano that actually erupted! It was messy but so much fun. My teacher said it was very creative, and I thought about you because you always encourage me to be curious.

How have you been? Are your garden flowers blooming yet? I miss helping you in the garden and can't wait to see you during the summer holidays.

Oh! I almost forgot. I've started learning to play the piano. It's a bit tricky, but I enjoy it a lot. I remember you have a piano, and maybe you could teach me a song or two when I visit.

I miss you a lot and hope to hear back from you soon. Please give my love to Grandpa and tell him I beat my own high score in the spelling bee contest at school.

Best wishes,

Ava
