Dear Mr. Johnson,

Subject: Appeal for Reconsideration of Visa Application

I hope this letter finds you well. I am writing to formally appeal the decision made by the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) regarding my visa application (Case Number: 123456789). I fully respect the agency's policies and procedures and understand the gravity of the situation. However, I believe that there are important considerations and additional information that were not taken into account, which I would like to bring to your attention.

On June 15, 2024, I received a notification that my visa application was denied due to insufficient evidence of financial stability. I would like to outline the circumstances that I believe should be considered in reevaluating my case:

- Since the submission of my initial application, I have secured a job offer from a reputable company, ABC Corporation, which guarantees a stable income sufficient to support my stay in the United States.
- Additionally, I have received financial support from a family member, which is documented and can be verified through bank statements and a letter of support.

I am committed to complying with all requirements and procedures, and I have taken the following steps to address the issues outlined in the original decision:

- I have included my job offer letter from ABC Corporation and additional financial documents to demonstrate my financial stability.
- I have arranged for an affidavit of support from my family member, including notarized documents to validate the financial assistance.

I kindly request that my case be reevaluated in light of this new information. I am willing to provide any additional documentation or information that may be required and am available to discuss my situation further if necessary.

Thank you for considering my appeal. I am hopeful for a favorable response and am committed to cooperating fully with USCIS to resolve this matter.

Sincerely,

Jane Smith
