

26th Annual Distributor Conference

Feb. 6-8 2014

FEATURING SEMINARS BY:

Our 26th Annual Vintage Air Distributor Conference is rapidly approaching. If you have not yet made plans to attend, we urge you to do so soon. Please note that we have scheduled our conference for early February 2014, in an effort to avoid schedule conflicts. As we discussed last year, we have decided to make the Distributor Conference a bi-annual event so our next conference will be in early 2016.

We will continue to follow the three-day format that has proven to be so successful over time. On Thursday, we will host a full day of classroom sessions devoted to Vintage Air product familiarization, sales training and marketing strategies designed to help you maximize your air conditioning system and accessory sales. We will also give you a preview of some of our newest products under development for the coming year.

Our Friday schedule will feature seminars from Classic Instruments, ididit, American Autowire and RideTech. These seminars are tailored to a distributor's perspective, and all Vintage Air Distributors are invited, even if they are not currently dealers for each of these companies.

On Saturday, we will shift to our facility for some practical A/C basics, operational demonstrations, and installation tips.

Classic Instruments will return to the Friday seminar lineup. In their seminar, Classic Instruments will give you the knowledge and understanding to provide your customer with the best instrumentation option available. You will walk away with an understanding of the diverse options available and how to order the correct components for your customers. You will also have the opportunity to learn some common installation and troubleshooting solutions. The Team will also highlight custom applications and new products, along with information on its staff members and Customer Service. For more information, contact John McLeod at john@classicinstruments.com, or call 1-231-582-0461.

ididit will be a new addition to this year's distributor conference. The ididit seminar, "Why ididit is your Best Choice when it comes to steering" will focus on our company history, latest products, what's hot in the industry today and why we think ididit is the only choice when it comes to steering columns. For more information, contact Marty Waterstraub at marty@ididitinc.com, or call 1-517-424-0577.

American Autowire will again be a part of our feature seminar program. The seminar will include reviews of their latest product releases in the "Classic Update Series", "Universal Street Rod", and "Factory Fit" OEM replacement harness lines, followed by a technical session on electrical system selection. The session will be capped off with an open discussion forum on component selection, installation guidelines, and problem solving. All American Autowire Dealers and potential new dealers are invited to join the presentation. For additional information contact Dave McKelvey at 856-933-0801 ext 241, or email him at dave.mckelvey@americanautowire.com.

RideTech will be conducting a seminar that will discuss shock absorber technology, shock tuning, and several new products for the coming year. Suspension component selection, and shock valving options (RQ/HQ/TQ) will also be discussed. Additionally, RideTech is excited to announce and will provide in-depth information about their completely new line-up of monotube, smooth bodied OE replacement shock absorbers and struts. General customer support and selling questions will also be addressed. This seminar is open to anyone interested in the proper selling and installation points of a RideTech suspension system. Current dealers and potential dealers are especially encouraged to attend. For more information, contact Darren Schilling at 812-481-4706 or email darren@ridetech.com.
