

BABY EVICTION NOTICE

I, the Landlord (Mommy), am issuing a 30 Day notice for EVICTION (11th August 2014).

Tenant (Baby) will have 30 Days to comply and promptly vacate the premises, or wait until authorization for removal by midwife. After which, she/he will be removed from the property by induction.

The Tenant (Baby) is being evicted due to breach of contract and destruction of property. Expansions only to the FRONT of the house, within reasonable limits, were discussed. Not only have these limits been exceeded, but additions to the back and sides of the house were also made without approval from the Landlord (Mommy).

Remodeling and gutting of the home was never approved, nor was changing the initial layout and base structure. Due to the damage by the Tenant (Baby), the foundation has been compromised, and the structural integrity of the house is questionable. The Landlord (Mommy) has also received numerous complaints about frequent nightly disturbances.

If the Tenant (Baby) doesn't comply with the notice it will result in an immediate and forceful removal at the discretion of a midwife and the Landlord (Mommy)

Mummy, daddy and big sister Maryam look forward to meeting you xxxxxx
