Sales Territory Design

A professional process of creating territories by your criteria...in the way best for your organization. Basic needs to complex modeling and balancing. The sales territory design process reflects the business: its management, history, culture, direction and industry. Some companies are established with 100 years of history, while others are relatively new. One business has a complex, well established, multilevel sales organization structure that undergoes annual review, while other businesses seem to redesign territories monthly.
