Disclosure - How This Site Works

Here at The-eBook-Reader.com we purchase the vast majority of products reviewed on this website, but occasionally receive free merchandise for reviewing some products. Usually we send review units back, but sometimes the company would rather we keep the item to post updates about new firmware and such. Regardless of this, all reviews on this site are as unbiased as possible, listing both positives and negatives of a specific product so that you, the consumer, can decide which is best for your specific needs.

The-eBook-Reader.com receives affiliate commissions from various affiliate links posted throughout this website through Commission Junction, SkimLinks, Amazon Associates program, and others.

Whenever someone clicks on an affiliate link and then purchases something from that company, The-eBook-Reader.com receives a small percentage of the sale, depending on the product. This, along with Adsense and advertising, is how this website generates enough money to cover costs to keep this site up and running.

"Ads by Google" are random advertisements controlled by Google, so if you see a Google ad and a Web page about the same product or service, it is a coincidence.

We only accept non-Google sponsorships from providers of high-quality goods or services. We appreciate their recognition and support of this site.

In addition, The-eBook-Reader.com is an independent information website and is not employed by, own stock, or have any personal relationship with any of the companies listed on this website.
