Strategic Project- Tutoring Collaboration

- ✚ Follow up kick off events included a rousing game of family feud. The TRIO folks collected survey data from Faculty, Advisors, and Financial Aid staff, asking the question- “what are the top things you wished students would not say.”
Items that ended up in the top ten, included:

 - “Did I miss anything when I skipped class?” (nah, we don’t do anything in class but eat bon bons)
 - “Can you just fix that for me?”
- ✚ Additionally, the kick off events included a time where the staff had students fill out cards with questions and issues. These were then submitted anonymously. Then the TRIO staff answered questions, and walked students through scenarios to help them work through the issues or explore various ways to respond to stressors.
- ✚ The two themes that bubbled up for students when they were able to submit the questions anonymously were “how do I approach faculty when I have a concern”, and “What resources do we have for mental health issues.”
