1. Map introductory section:

    I.   Introductory Section
   a. Introduce issue
   b. Introduce book, full author name, and date of publication
   c. Provide short summary of book (2-3 sentences)
   d. State your argument claim—"In her book, Nazario presents Enrique's journey as worthwhile/not worthwhile because she describes his journey as [reason] and [reason]. She also presents his journey as worthwhile because [reason]."

2. Map reasons section:

    II.   Reasons Section
   a. State argument claim for reason[1]
      i. Provide evidence
      ii. Identify warrant
      iii. Provide backing
   b. State argument claim for reason[2]
      i. Provide evidence
      ii. Identify warrant
      iii. Provide backing
   c. State argument claim for reason[3]
      i. Provide evidence
      ii. Identify warrant
      iii. Provide backing

3. Map acknowledgements and responses section:

    III.   Acknowledgements and Response section
   a. Identify counter argument[1]
      i. Provide evidence for counterargument
      ii. Provide response
      iii. Provide evidence for response
   b. Identify counter argument[2]
      i. Provide evidence for counterargument
      ii. Provide response
      iii. Provide evidence for response

4. Map conclusion section:

    IV.   Concluding Section
   a. Restate argument claim.
   b. Identify "so what"—"By understanding Nazario's main argument in this text, we (the reader) are [identify the value of knowing Nazario's main argument]."

1. Map introductory section:
   - I.   Introductory Section
     - a. Introduce issue
     - b. Introduce book, full author name, and date of publication
     - c. Provide short summary of book (2-3 sentences)
     - d. State your argument claim—"In her book, Nazario presents Enrique's journey as worthwhile/not worthwhile because she describes his journey as [reason] and [reason]. She also presents his journey as worthwhile because [reason]."

2. Map reasons for section:
   - II.   Reasons Section—
     - a. State argument claim for reason[1]
       - i. Provide evidence
       - ii. Identify warrant
       - iii. Provide backing
     - b. State argument claim for reason[2]
       - i. Provide evidence
       - ii. Identify warrant
       - iii. Provide backing
     - c. State argument claim for reason[3]
       - i. Provide evidence
       - ii. Identify warrant
       - iii. Provide backing

3. Map reasons against section:
   - III.   Reasons Section—
     - a. State argument claim for reason[1]
       - i. Provide evidence
       - ii. Identify warrant
       - iii. Provide backing
     - b. State argument claim for reason[2]
       - i. Provide evidence
       - ii. Identify warrant
       - iii. Provide backing
     - c. State argument claim for reason[3]
       - i. Provide evidence
       - ii. Identify warrant
       - iii. Provide backing

4. Map conclusion section:
   - IV.   Concluding Section
     - a. Restate argument claim.
     - b. Identify "so what"—"By understanding Nazario's main argument in this text, we (the reader) are [identify the value of knowing Nazario's main argument]."