(Unlike your roles in the preparation of the presentation, when you speak during the presentation each person will have a special role in elucidating a particular aspect of the topic.)

Main points:

Moderator: Hello everyone! Thank you for attending our presentation. The title of our presentation is “The Dangers of GMO foods.” The thesis is “GMO foods should be banned because they are a threat to human and animal health.” Our presentation today will cover the following points: Our group purpose; background of GMO foods; information on the dangers of GMO food to humans and animals; and finally our conclusion of the topic. Let me introduce our group members. Audrey Hepburn, Richard Wilcox, Mickey Mouse and finally Michelangelo. And now, the beautiful Audrey Hepburn, please...

Speaker 1, Audrey Hepburn: The purpose of our presentation...

Important background to our topic is that Monsanto and other biotech companies ....

Speaker 2, Wilcox: I'd like to tell you all about to human health. This is a very controversial topic so let me show you some slides with irrefutable data to support this assertion. First of all, this chart shows that from the time that GMO foods were introduced into the US diet, an increase of a variety of diseases has occurred... And now Mickey Mouse will tell you about the threat to animal health from GMO foods.

Speaker 3, Mickey: Ha-ha! GMO foods are no laughing matter! As you can see from these slide, a number of documented negative health impacts have occurred from farm animals that have regularly ingested GMO feed...

Speaker 4: To summarize, GMO foods... In conclusion , our group feels.... The references to our presentation included the following sources: The book Genetic Roulette which offers a huge amount of thought provoking information, the website Natural Society. Wikipedia offers a fairly neutral view and Monsanto homepage offers the pro GMO viewpoint. Thank you for your kind attention.

(The Moderator states the title of the presentation; states the thesis; explains the outline and finally introduces the group members; Speaker 1 states the presentation purpose and relevant background information; Speaker 2 elucidates main and supporting points; Speaker 3 elucidates main and supporting points; Speaker 4 summarizes the presentation and states the group conclusions; mentions and explains some relevant details about the references.
