MR. D'AURIA

DUE: Friday September 11, 2020

Directions: Your objective is to read one of the following books and write a book report. The book selections that are listed below can be found at your local library, book store, Amazon or IBooks.

1. The World is Flat: A Brief History of the 21st Century by Thomas L. Friedman

When scholars write the history of the world twenty years from now, and they come to the chapter "Y2K to March 2004," what will they say was the most crucial development? The attacks on the World Trade Center on 9/11 and the Iraq War? Or the convergence of technology and events that allowed India, China, and so many other countries to become part of the global supply chain for services and manufacturing, creating an explosion of wealth in the middle classes of the world's two biggest nations.

2. A History of the World in 6 Glasses by Tom Standage

In this book, Tom Standage tells a popular history of the world through six beverages: beer, wine, spirits, coffee, tea, and Coca Cola. A thoroughly enjoyable read, the book is full of those kinds of anecdotes and stories that help students to enjoy and remember history. Better still is the book's ability to provide a possible narrative of world history. The book is organized chronologically, allowing each beverage to tell the story of a period through local stories, global processes, and connections. Along the way, the reader can make comparisons amongst these drinks as to which have been seen as medicinal drinks, currency, social equators, revolutionary substances, status indicators, and nutritional supplements. In studying drinks, as with food, class and social structure are emphasized allowing social historical perspective.
